

HFC Career Services & Student Activities Office hosts Learning Series

SIX 1 HOUR SESSIONS | FALL 2021

The Art of Preparing for a Career

We are excited to offer this series focused on different aspects of launching your career. As students, you've been taking classes focused on your program of study at HFC, but this series will be different. We will use images and video clips (not heavy reading) to explore areas like confronting obstacles, the impact of perspective, and seeing yourself as a leader. Join us for this fun interactive series on launching your career.

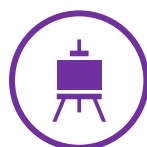

Each week we will explore 1 or 2 topics with time for group discussion.

Sessions will be held on zoom.

There is NO COST involved for students.

"Developing employability skills has never been more important...businesses all over the world want students who can enter a job with the ability to add value to the team, problem-solve, think critically, and communicate effectively. A student could get an A in math, but not have those skills...Each of the images in the course represents a skill employers have identified as critical to a person's success in a career."
